Pigs favorite

Apple pie with whipped creame

The pig is one of the most common domestic animals in Denmark and descends from the wild boar. It is omnivorous, which means that it eats almost everything. The pig eats plants, fruit, nuts, mushrooms, root vegetables and roots, but also eat bird eggs, worms, insects and carrion. The snout of the pig used to root in the soil for food.

Brown bear snack

Crispy chicken

The bear eats almost everything it finds edible. Mainly the bear eats plants. These are plants such as berries, fruits, roots, grass, leaf buds and the like. However, it is also said that bears can easily eat forms of animal food. These are predominantly small animals such as caterpillars, worms, frogs, fish and the like. In addition, it has also been seen that the bear can eat inedible things. It has been seen eating rubber boots.

Lions lunch

Vension salami with bread and butter

The Lion is the largest cat in Africa. It lives entirely on meat. The lion is a herd of animals and can catch large prey, such as a buffalo, by hunting together. It also catches small prey such as birds and mice. It is often the females who hunt, but it is the male who eats first. Then the females and finally the cubs.

Monkey food

Vegetables with insects

Gibbon apes eat a lot of fruit and like when it is very ripe. They often return to the same fruit trees and carefully select the best fruits by tasting them first. They also eat plants, flowers and insects. This often happens at the time of year when the fruits are not ripe yet.
